Vuyisile has approximately six years' experience in Supply Chain Management in the design and execution phases of fabrication and manufacturing in the power generation and petrochemical industry. He has been exposed to direct/goods procurement in the Capital Projects environment in the initial three years with added exposure to services procurement in capital projects. He has an additional ten months experience in the financial technology digital banking sector where he worked in the strategic procurement team.

He is an innovative, hardworking, committed self-motivated individual with natural leadership, sturdy communication skills and an ability to employ practical solutions when it comes to problem solving. He is a team player who is organized, pays attention to detail, analytical, understands the importance of deadlines, proper clientele service and has interpersonal/intercultural intelligence thus enabling him to legal and business challenges, research the applicable principles that apply to such issues and apply them to practical situations for the most apposite conclusions for clients.

Vuyisile is an energetic, fast learner who believes in lifelong learning, proven by involvement in large projects as a custodian of contracts of critical material and services needed for the successful completion of projects, in which the contracts were completed successfully on schedule and within budget with substantial cost savings. Vuyisile is a negotiator, determined, driven and eager to undertake new challenges.

These traits and acquired skills, along with an acute gift in research, logic, creativity and reasoning allow him to tackle complex problems with legal and strategic reasoning by investigating and finding the appropriate resolution for avoiding, mitigating, managing and eliminating risks applicable to situations.
